

Allison Vazquez

Allison has been riding horses most of her life. She first got started in the reining showing as a youth in 13 & Under and all through high school until leaving for college to attend The University of Texas at Austin. After getting her Finance degree from the McCombs School of Business, she moved back to Houston and has worked mostly in the energy industry in finance and treasury roles. Currently she is a Director of Treasury for a midstream company in Houston, TX. In addition, Allison is married to NRHA professional Franky Vazquez. After a hiatus from showing and supporting her husband's business behind the scenes, she recently started showing her mare Alpha Little Shiner and is enjoying the fun of being back in show pen. As a former TRHA youth member and current TRHA member, she is looking forward to working with the other officers of the TRHA and it's membership to grow and further the association's mission.
